

The Wet Trail

Nate and Pam went down the trail and into the woods.
The trail was wet because it had rained in the night.

Then Nate slipped and fell.
He felt a lot of pain.

“Oh no,” he said. “I think I have a sprain!
And now I am all wet too!”

“I will help you,” said Pam.
“You can use this stick as a crutch.
I will help you walk home.”

“When we get to your house, we can watch TV. We can hike on the trail another day,” said Pam.

“Yes, but first I will need to change out of my wet clothes!” said Nate.
